(Last year in brackets)

Quality: Plain. A small weight of well made good liquoring varieties however, were on offer.

Demand: Less demand. Well made types were a fairly strong market.

Buyers: Blenders followed quality and were less active than last. Loose Tea Traders were selective.

LEAF-CTC:

Brokens: A small weight of the cleaner types offered sold readily at around last levels. Others met with less demand and suffered large withdrawals.

Fannings: A limited weight of the bright liquoring sorts offered were well absorbed at firm to little easier rates following quality. Rest met with selective interest at little easier rates with many withdrawals.

Bought-Leaf Teas: Only a limited demand. There were heavy withdrawals.

Dust: Met with a good demand. Clean bright liquoring types were a fairly strong feature selling at firm to little dearer rates. Others sold well at little easier rates following quality. Plain types were neglected.

Comment: Buyers followed quality closely resulting in very poor demand for the lesser sorts on offer which were mostly withdrawn without registering any bids. A small weight of the well made good liquoring types offered however, sold well at firm to little easier rates. Dusts were a good market especially the useful liquoring types. Cleaner CD's were a strong feature.
